

BONNIE WILLIAMS

Watercolor Artist

Biography

Bonnie began painting at an early age. As a third generation Idahoan, her experiences growing up on dairy farms, camping and hiking has greatly influenced her love of rural landscapes, mountains and streams. She earned a Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees and worked as a Human Resources director in high tech, healthcare and logistics. After retiring she has devoted time to teaching watercolor classes, participating in art association juried shows, festivals, studio tours and shown her work in galleries. During her extensive travel, seeing the work of master artists was the most inspiring. She has two grown children and lives with her husband in Hayden, Idaho.

Artist's Statement

Creating art has been Bonnie's lifelong passion. She began painting with India ink and then watercolors. She says that watercolors are the most expressive medium in that they mingle and move about the paper. She paints because she hopes the viewer appreciates her interpretation of nature. Bonnie is primarily a self-taught artist with some workshops; however, study of master painters' works and practices are part of her regular routine. Her loose painting style makes the most of interesting brush marks and suggested shapes provide interest. She feels that there is always much to learn and improve in her work.
